The work was to be done for the Mississippi River Transmission Corp., a division of Arkla Inc. based in St. Jacob, Ill., so that the transmission firm could troubleshoot the route of its natural gas pipeline from the air. As neighbors pleaded from the ground, crews in cherry-pickers sawed off limbs and let limbs, nests and baby birds fall to the ground 25 feet below.

The neighbors ran to rescue the birds, but reported that a buildozer operator seemed to take a special delight in beating them to the birds. Less than-a dozen of the downed birds were saved.

Law office fire may be arson

A fire at Dick Allen's Madison Avenue faw office early Tuesday was apparently set. Fire Chief Jerry Wallace said the fire at 2945 Madison Ave., owned by attorney Dick Allen, is investigation nature and under investigation. Granite City arson investigator Mike Murgic was at the scene processing evidence at press time.

Firefighters on the scene said the blaze was apparently the work of an amateur.

The fire started just after 6 a.m. Two pumper trucks and eight firefighters responded to the scene.

Let be the scene was knocked down quickly, limiting fire damage to a minimum, Wallace said. But smoke damage was evident throughout the one-story building.

The fire apparently originated in four separate places — two on the ground floor and two in the

The two upstairs fires were apparently set in a couch in an interior office and in a closet directly across the hall from the office had been broken.

Nobody was in the building when firefighters arrived, Wallace said.

The building was also used by Charles Weitzman and John C. Haynes for law offices.

Errors help Junior Triplets split twinbill

In the first game of Saturday's double-header in Edwardsville, the Junior Triplets were offensively defensive. They put runners on base in every imming but didn't score in a 2-0 loss.

In the nightcap, Edwardsville was defensively offensive, committing eight errors while the pitchers walked 12 in a 14-3 Granite City win. The spit left the Junior Triplets with a 3-2 record following a 7-2 win in Bethalto on Friday.

Are you looking for some straight talk about high yield investments?

Let's talk about collateralized mortgage obligations. Although the name sounds complex, Collateralized Mortgage Obligations, or CMOs, are simply investment securities backed by pools of mortgages.

- Flexible interest payment options. CMOs may offer monthly, quarterly or semi-annual interest payment option
- Safety. Most CMOs are backed by government agencies which guarantee the timely payment of principal and
- Liquidity. An active and extensive secondary market for CMOs exists, representing the largest category of mortgage backed securities.

American Cancer Society promoting 'safe sun' idea

The Quad Cities Unit of the American Cancer Society is kicking off summer with special activities to deglamorize tanning and help stem the U.S. epidemic of malignant melanoma in the local area. "We can keep most people from getting malignant melanoma; the deadliest of the skin cancers, by convincing them to change their behavior in the sun," said Barbara Mihalich, Unit board chairman.

Patient treats kidney as 'gold mine'

For the second time in the last seven years, Angelo Rosi has a new chance at life through a kidney transplant. And this time, he cheep or the control of the comportunity. The 27-year-old Florissant resident received his first transplant from his mother at age 20. But the kidney failed when, in Rosi's words, he "iddn't properly take." "When you're 20 years old, you don't want to listen to people telling you to take your medicine every day," he said. "But you have to do that. "I turned 21, stayed out drinking all night and drove my race cast and the control of the control

"I left the beeper they gave me at home in a drawer," he recalled. But in May of 1990, Rosi received what DePaul Health Center officials called "a gift from God," in the form of a kid-ney donated by a 9-year-old Ten-nessee boy killed in an auto acci-dent.

ney donasse messee boy killed in an auso acceptance. "It was a perfect match, better even than my mother," said Rosi. "This one, I take care of like a gold mine." Rosi, though, had to wait just over two years for his second kidney. And nationwide, more than 23,000 Americans are' waiting for a "gift of life" in the form of a donated kidney, heart, liver, lung or other organ or tis-liver, lung or other organ or ussue.

Whisplants nationwide is steedly increasing, "the need for kidneys far outnumbers the amount of donations," said Beth Heepke, renal transplant coordinator for DePaul Health Center in Bridgeton "Many people are still very reluctant to donate," she said.

At-DePaul about 30 patients are currently waiting for a donor; Heepke said.

She attributes the reluctance

She attributes the reluctance of donors mainly to "misinformation" about the organ transplant process. In the case of deceased donors, obtaining legal permission from families is often extremely difficult, she said.

"Families are afraid we're not going to take as good a care of a (dying) patient if we need organs," she said. "That's not true. We're in business to save lives."

In other cases, if a potential donor has not indicated his or her wishes on a donor card or driver's license the family may be left guessing and confused, said DePaul renal transplant surgeon Marco Castenada.

"That's why it's so important that families get together and talk about organ donations before the time comes," Castenone's wishes."

Living candidates for kidney donation are often fearful of the prospects of surgery, followed by eight weeks of recuperation and life with only one kidney.
But the human body actually only needs 10 to 15 percent of its only needs 10 to 15 percent of its total kidney function, Castenada said. Once a kidney begins operating by itself, he said, its capacity will increase "by as much as 70 to 80 percent."

Other potential donors are eliminated by the donation screening process, Castenada screening process, Castenada to be compatible and the kidney of the compatible and the control of the compatible and control to be in good health — free for any allments that could lead to kidney disease.

If the donor meets those

If the donor meets those requirements, he or she can become a living hero to those who wait, such as Angelo Rosi. "Organs save a lot of lives," he said, "and this one sure saved mine."

This makes the news about the safety of pension plans all the more disturbing: 17,000 plans are underfunded by about 340 billion, which money hasn't yet been set aside.

Of that total, financially ailing companies account for $15 billion, an amount that "rep-resents a serious risk" to the Pension Bene-fit Guarantee Corp. a spokesman says. fit Guarantee Corp. a spokesman says. Q. My-church is going to provide child care during Sunday we pay to our child care workers?

A. Employees of non-profit organizations, like churches, are subject to FICA tax only if they are paid $100 or more in a year. If your church pays an employee at least $100 in a year then all of his wages are FICA-taxable; even the first $100. Generally, the church mast withhold FICA tax from wages.

For more information call or visit your local Social Security tax if they are opposed to it for religious reasons. This rule exempts the church from paying FICA taxes, but does not exempt employees. Employees who work for an exempted church have to flic a self-employment tax return and pay both the employee and
